SENATE PASSES CHICAGO LICENSE MEASURE, 28-17

New Law Limited to Three Years.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Springfield, Ill., June 14.—(Special.)—Chicago Democratic leaders, by working nearly all night and all day, succeeded in getting through enough votes to pass the bill granting Chicago the power to tax as well as license nearly all industries, except transportation and building. The vote in the senate tonight was 28 to 17. The bill has already passed the house, and is expected to concur in the amendments tacked on by the senate.

These limit the operation of the bill to Cook county and for a period of three years, and prohibit a tax of more than $1,000 a year on any one business. If the house accepts this as reported, the bill will go to Gov. Small for approval. It is persistently rumored that he had promised not to veto the bill, although the reports differ on whether he made a definite promise to sign the bill. He can permit it to become a law without his signature.

Barbour Tells of Deal.

Senator Barbour (Rep., Chicago) at the end of the debate asserted that there had been a deal on certain legislation. He declared that the roll calls of the house and the senate gave convincing circumstantial evidence of the deal.

He said that Democrats in the house had voted "present" and the Small Republicans "no" on the senate bill appropriating $75,000 to the attorney general with which to attempt to recover about $2,000,000 in interest on public money on which Gov. Small is alleged to have stuck down deep in his pocket. In exchange Small Republicans in the house voted for the tax on business for Chicago.

Attacks Tax on Business.

Senator Keatinger (Rep., Kane) made the most comprehensive statement attacking the tax on business.

"Why penalize business, cripple industry, retard prosperity and almost confiscate property by taxation?" he asked.

"With the country full of tax exempt securities, with retired men evading their income taxes, it seems to be the popular policy to put burden after burden of cumulative taxation upon the active business man."

"These direct taxes by state, or by cities, with the excessive fees, have grown up in a haphazard and chaotic way. There has been no uniformity regarding the fees charged and very little discrimination between what business is proper and what is improper for licensing, regulation, and special taxation. There has just been an accumulation of hastily drawn and hurriedly passed laws."

Fifty Tax Bills Introduced.

"In this session alone, nearly fifty bills have been introduced in the house to impose a tax or license fee on something or other." In addition to the taxes on personal property and real estate the state of Illinois exacts more than $15,000,000 a year in direct taxes on businesses. In the last fiscal year, automobile owners paid $7,882,452; the direct taxes on corporations totaled $2,886,000; insurance companies paid $3,413,245 more; hunters and fishermen paid $458,963, and sundry others paid $183,532."

Senator Keatinger made an additional statement, comparing the taxation of personal property in Cook county and downstate as an argument for. He said that the total bank deposits in Chicago on May 5, 1922, totaled $1,901,418,225, while the full value of all the personal property in Cook county in 1922 for assessing purposes aggregated only $831,329,000.

Comparison of Assessments.

Senator Keatinger showed that the federal census of 1919 said that 62 per cent of the capital invested in industries in the state was in Cook county, while only 38 per cent was downstate. Yet the assessed valuation of manufactured products in Cook county in 1922 was $2,370,054, while downstate the amount was $12,054,192.

The chief arguments for the bill were made by Senator Hughes (Dem., Chicago) and Senator Denver (Dem., Chicago). They pleaded that the city government needs more money because of the increase in the police force and the city government had been reasonable heretofore in assessing license fees.

They were certain that the present administration would be fair and just in exercising the power which the bill conferred. They asked that downstate permit the city to deal with its own problems.

STATE AND CITY JOIN IN SMASH AT SPEED EVIL

Jail Sentence Gets O. K. in House.

Auto speeders and the "fixers" upon whom they depend for immunity were dealt two blows yesterday. Bills providing jail sentences and license forfeitures for reckless motorists as well as for the ultimate elimination of "fixing" were approved by the house at Springfield and sent to the senate for consideration.

At the same time Mayor Dever's safety council began an investigation of charges that political influence and petty bribery brought about the quashing of flagrant cases of law violation in the speed courts. Pitiless publicity in "fixing" cases was the first suggestion to the committee which will investigate conditions.

The findings of the committee, which consists of Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr., Lieut. John Martin, commanding the police traffic division; Harry J. Bell, head of the safety commission, and Arnold K. Joerns, secretary, will be the foundation for probable amendments to existing traffic ordinances and vehicle laws.

Speeders Hard Hit in Bill.

Imprisonment for thirty days and license revocation for one year is the penalty provided for the speeder or reckless driver who fails to answer an arrest summons, in a bill introduced by Representative Albert H. Roberts (Rep., Chicago) and passed by the house yesterday.

If passed by the senate, the bill will become effective on July 1, and will empower speed policemen to accept cash bonds from arrested speeders instead of handing them an arrest slip. Investigators have reported that under the existing system a large percentage of the slips are "pulled" before the arrest is docketed.

Each cash bond receipt would be numbered serially and the bill provides that loss or mutilation of the blanks is to be held as contempt of court, as is failure to appear for trial. This, it is declared, means jail terms for "fixers" as well as for speeders. The thirty day jail sentence with $1,000 revocation is an addition to the present $5 to $200 fine for contempt.

See Accidents Reduced.

According to Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court and Attorney O. P. Lightfoot of the Chicago Motor club, sponsors of the new measures, automobile accidents will be greatly reduced by their enactment.

Coroner Oscar Wolff has promised to furnish the mayor's safety commission with a report of all fatal motor accidents since Jan. 1. These will be tabulated and indicated upon an "accident map" of the city. Unusually dangerous traffic centers will be designated on the map and the police department will be asked to cooperate in the enforcement of rigid traffic regulations until the hazards and fatalities are reduced.

"VAMPIRE" HITS BOY

A "vampire" motorist yesterday struck and probably fatally injured David Revere, Jr., 7 years old, of 1871 Sheffield avenue, and sped away without attempting to ascertain the injuries he inflicted on the boy. At the Alexian Brothers' hospital it was said the boy had sustained a fractured skull. He was crossing Sheffield avenue at Willow street when struck. At Waukegan, Weyman W. Whipple, 6249 Wentworth avenue, en route to Wisconsin on a fishing trip, received a broken collarbone when his motorcycle, driven by his wife, collided with an automobile.

Bringing in 20 Ton Fish

Miami, Fla., June 14.—The 40,000 pound rhynchodon typus, known as a whale shark, caught Saturday off Marathon by a party of fishermen, was saved to science this afternoon only after a two hour fight with a school of forty tiger sharks while a tug was towing the fish to Key West, where representatives of the American Museum of Natural History of New York will save the monster for study and classification. F. H. Limekiller, taxidermist of the New York museum, is expected to reach Key West tonight to start preserving the rhynchodon and preparing it for shipment to New York.

PASTONI SEEKS $40 TO HALT HIS HANGING TODAY

Between Caspar Pastoni, sentenced to be hanged this morning, and an appeal to Gov. Small for a stay of execution, there stood last night just $40. Pastoni did not have the $40—he has no money. Relatives who visited him didn't have it. He has no friends. His attorneys were willing to give the time to make the trip to Springfield to call on the governor, but they would not defray the expenses—$40. Pastoni's crime was a love crime. He was sentenced for the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Witcheil and her 11 year old daughter; he shot and killed them both in a frenzy when the woman told him that he could never have her. He shot himself, too, after he had killed the woman and her daughter.

Discovery of the lack of the $40 in Pastoni's case came late yesterday when he was visited by his attorneys, J. J. Buckley, Edward J. Hamilton and Harry A. Keirna. They were just leaving the death chamber when Joseph Genova, 904 Sedgwick street, a brother-in-law, Mrs. Genova, Pastoni's sister, and Miss Rose Pastoni, another sister from Madison, Wis., arrived. There was a conference, but none of the kin had the $40.

"I want to make this appeal on the grounds that the state will be executing an insane man if Pastoni is hanged," said Attorney Buckley. "We were appointed by the court and have received not a penny. We are willing to make the trip. But we do not feel it our duty to put up the money."

CAUSE OF CANCER FOUND, DECLARES PHYSIOLOGIST

Philadelphia, Pa., June 14.—An announcement that he had discovered the cause of cancer, a problem that has baffled medical science, was made today by Donald C. A. Butts, a physiological chemist of the state department of health. In an address before the alumni association of the Women's Medical college, he said cancer was caused by an excess of positive electricity or energy in cells of the body.

"The question involves what I have called 'cellionization' of the bodily tissues," he said. "When proper balance and distribution of these ions is present, normal metabolism, functioning and life-cycle of the cells result. The cells which comprise entire bodies are composed of positively and negatively charged portions continually in active motion, which interchange. Their combinations and recombinations produce the various chemical, thermal and electrical changes necessary to carry on the organism, and if this molecular motion is stabilized simultaneously throughout the cell, death will result."

MUSIC AND ART GET CARR GIFTS

Will Leaves $1,000,000 to Chicago Orchestra.

Gifts of approximately $1,000,000 to the Chicago Symphony orchestra and $500,000 to the Art Institute are made in the will of Clyde M. Carr, millionaire steel manufacturer, president of Joseph T. Ryerson and Son, music lover, art patron, and civic leader, who died in his home at 1130 Lake Shore drive on June 5.

The will, disposing of a $2,000,000 estate, was filed for probate yesterday in Waukegan, county seat of Lake county. Mr. Carr maintained his legal residence at his summer home, one of the show places of Lake Forest, in that county.

The two principal gifts, together with minor bequests totaling $40,000 to hospitals and institutions, probably will give the memory of Mr. Carr rank with those of John Crerar, Walter L. Newberry, Bryan Lathrop, and other notable benefactors of the city.

Frederick A. Stock, director of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, is bequeathed $500,000. Frederick J. Wessels $1,500, and Henry E. Voegel $1,000 "as a slight token," so the will states, "of my appreciation of their faithfulness and loyalty to the Orchestral Association of Chicago, and of their services to music in Chicago."

Mr. Carr endows a room in the Children's Memorial hospital with a gift of $10,000 to the memory of his daughter, Dorothy, and makes bequests of $5,000 each to the Presbyterian hospital, St. Luke's hospital, Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum, Chicago Lying in hospital and dispensary, Visiting Nurses' association and Alice home in Lake Forest.

Arts Got Huge Sums.

After distributing $100,000 more in equal shares among nine nephews and nieces, Mr. Carr leaves one-half of the residuary estate to the orchestra, the entire income to be used by the trustees without restrictions. One-fourth of the residuary estate is left to the Art Institute, to be kept as a separate fund, the income from the principal for the balance of the year to be used "for the purchase of paintings and for no other purpose."

Neither of these gifts is to be made until after the death of the widow, Mrs. Lillian Van Alstyne Carr, who is to receive the interest from the residuary estate during her lifetime. The remaining fourth of the estate is left to Mrs. Carr outright, to be disposed of by her at her death as she wishes.

The Illinois Merchants' Trust company and William C. Boyden of Fisher, Boyden, Kaick and Bell, are named as executors and trustees of the estate.

BOARD OF THREE TO SETTLE CAR WAGES DISPUTE

Mayor to Name the Third
Man as Arbitrator.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
Union chiefs carried their argument yesterday for an "old style" form of arbitration in the traction wage controversy. Under an agreement reached by the joint conference in Mayor Dever's office during the afternoon the companies will pick one arbitrator, the unions will pick one, and Mayor Dever will select the "third man."

W. D. Mahon, international president of the car men, argued that the constitution of the unions provides that the arbitrator the men shall have representation on the board, and after long discussion the old method prevailed.

In reality there will be two boards for the cases of the surface men and the "L" employees are to be considered separately. Mayor Dever announced that the "third man" he picks will sit in both cases, and it is possible that the arbitrator chosen by the unions may also be the same in both hearings, although this appeared undecided last night.

The surface lines will pick their man for the street car hearing, and the "L" made will appoint a representative of their own to serve in the elevated case.

Points of Arbitration.
The general arbitration agreement covers the following points:
No strike is to be called.
Both sides are bound to accept the award.
Wage demands alone will be arbitrated; working conditions are not an issue.
The award is to be dated back to June 1.
The contract is to run two years instead of one—from June 1, 1923, to June 1, 1925.
A boost in fares is not to be considered in arriving at the wage award.
Mayor Dever said last night he has already picked his "third man" to serve as umpire, but will not divulge his identity until he is given the names of the other arbitrators selected by the companies and unions.

Surmises on Arbitrators.
A general guessing contest sprang over the personnel of the arbitration board. At the city hall, mysterious prophecies peddled rumors that the mayor's pick might be Fred Charles E. Warren, or Judge Samuel Alschuler of the federal bench, or Judge M. M. Bradley, or Judge William H. McSweeney, who served with the mayor on the appellate bench. But they are nothing but sheer guesses. The mayor himself was mute.

Expectations are that the members will be appointed today and will start proceedings without delay. It will be up to the board to determine whether the hearings are to be open or closed.

At a conference at the Briggs house in the day between officials of the appellate bench. But they are nothing but sheer guesses. The mayor himself was mute.

"The rules of the international body," he said, "provide that affiliated bodies are bound to accept decisions of arbitration proceedings or be ousted from the national organization."

GLIDES TO GARY

EDMUND T. ALLEN.
Edmund T. Allen of Evanston, who has been experimenting for over two years in the construction of motorless airplanes, yesterday succeeded in making a two hour flight in a glider from Ashburn aviation field. He flew first of all to Gary, Ind., thence over the shores, about 100 feet from the lake shore, to Michigan City, and then retraced his route back to the flying field. Mr. Allen, who was one of the American glider team who went to France last year, was a member of the Flying corps during the war, obtaining the rank of lieutenant. While at Langley field he made a record flight for height there, reaching 23,000 feet.

CAPIAS ISSUED FOR FAHERTY ON GRAFT CHARGE

Indicted for "Extra"
Link Bridge Payment.

Charges for the immediate arrest of Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements under the Lundin-Thompson administration, and Herbert B. Detweiler, an official of the White Paving company, were placed in the hands of deputy sheriffs yesterday afternoon.

The warrants were ordered by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley following return before him of indictments charging the two men with grand larceny in connection with the construction of the $16,000,000 Michigan boulevard bridge.

There are seven counts in the indictment of Faherty. They set out that he is responsible for the alleged misfeasance of a sum of money aggregating $24,632, said to have been paid to the White Paving company a few days after the work on the bridge was started.

Faherty, while president, it is charged, directed the payment of a $28,000 voucher to the paving concern. This was carried on the books of the board of local improvements as "extra payment."

Later in the day Frank Klaus, former alderman from the old Tenth ward, appeared before Chief Justice McKinley and gave bonds on an indictment returned against him late Wednesday. He was charged with receiving a bribe in connection with the vacation of a west side alley.

Neither Alderman Joseph H. Smith nor former Alderman Stanley S. Walkowiak of the old Seventeenth ward appeared to give bonds on indictments also charging receiving bribes in alley vacation cases. Alderman Smith is said to be ill.

OWN STORIES OF SISTERS USED TO PROVE SLAYING

Policeman Tells of Threats Against McGinnis.

The state yesterday used their own stories and admissions against Mrs. Anna McGinnis and Myrna Ploch in an attempt to prove the two blonde sisters guilty of the premeditated murder of Michael McGinnis, the former's husband, on March 13, last.

Lieut. William L. McCarthy, formerly of the Englewood police station, was the principal witness. He told how Mrs. McGinnis slept with another man by her side and a revolver under her pillow, ready to use it "in case McGinnis should come in unexpectedly," and how Myrna, the sister, showed a revolver to a neighbor on the day McGinnis came home to his death, and how she said: "I'll use it if he gets rough with me or my sister."

And the sleek young "sheiks," Charles Schade and Francis Nee, who are on trial with the sisters, took to court sories as the police officer detailed the women's stories and their own. For it was mostly from the admissions of the two youths that the lieutenant repeated the revolver episodes.

Lieut. McCarthy testified also that Mrs. McGinnis was "down trying to collect McGinnis' insurance" on March 22, the day she was arrested for the murder. Attorney Nihm Welch entered strenuous objections to this statement, but Judge Jacob Hopkins overruled him.

Myrna Ploch, McCarthy stated from the stand, told him in detail of the killing of McGinnis at the police station on March 13. She stated, he said, that McGinnis brought home "a man named Joe, to prove something against my sister." A quarrel grew out of this incident, McGinnis attempted to "throw Myrna out," seized his wife by the hair, and then, Myrna said, "I fired."

Both Admitted Shooting.
Both women, according to the lieutenant, admitted they fired shots at McGinnis.

"Myrna Ploch at first stated McGinnis laid the revolver she used on the piano," McCarthy testified. "She said she and McGinnis both made a rush for the revolver, but she beat him to it."

"Later we confronted her with Mrs. Pardon, a neighbor, to whom she had showed the revolver and said she would use it 'if McGinnis got rough' with her or her sister. Myrna then said: 'Well, I did show her the revolver, when I went home before going to my sister's house; it wasn't for the purpose of seeing my mother, but to get this gun.'"

"Did she tell you anything," Assistant State's Attorney Thomas J. Pedan asked, "about where she had got this revolver?"

"Yes," McCarthy replied, "she said Mike McGinnis gave it to her several months before—to protect herself after

Blind, but a Star

HERBERT GEISLER.

Herbert Geisler, 3743 Fullerton avenue, who at the age of 7 was stricken with a blindness that kept him out of school for two years, yesterday was voted the star pupil at John Marshall High school and was awarded the world war service scholarship, founded at the school four years ago in lieu of a memorial tablet. He is 18 years old.

The scholarship will assist Herbert through the University of Chicago, which he will enter next fall to study law.

A committee of teachers made the award on the strength not only of his work this year but throughout his high school career. "Every report card," it was stated, "has shown superiority." He is the president of the graduating class of 185 members, and often represents the school in debating.

He had told him someone was following her home from her work."

Passed Night at McGinnis Home.
"Did you learn where Schade, Nee and Myrna were on the night previous to the shooting?"

"Yes; they were at the McGinnis home. They came there some time on the 12th, and left there about 7 a.m. on March 13. Schade and Nee told me they remained there all night, and that Mrs. McGinnis slept alongside of Schade with a revolver under her pillow. In case McGinnis came home unexpectedly," they told me they had all agreed if anything happened under such circumstances they would say they thought McGinnis was a burglar."

Myrna Ploch told him, McCarthy said, that after both women had fired at McGinnis, the man they knew as "Joe" fled out the door, and that Mrs. McGinnis shouted at her: "Get the other fellow, Myrna; get Joe."

The state will put on a final witness this morning, and the defense will then open its case.

Armed Men Hold Up Truck; Get $5,000 in Poison Booze

Three men armed with revolvers held up Charles Laxner, 1531 Montana avenue, as he drove a truck, loaded with 500 cases of denatured alcohol, along West Ohio street yesterday, and took possession, throwing him out. The alcohol, valued at $5,000, was the property of J. B. Shower, 17 West Kinzie street.

CHARGED WITH PARK "MASHING."
James J. Reynolds, 115 North Pine avenue, will be arraigned in the Des Plaines street court today on a charge of annoying women last night in Garfield park.

DOUBLE MURDER HINTED AS RIVER YIELDS 2 BODIES

Suspect Robbery of Grocer and Friend.

The bodies of two men, recovered within a few minutes of each other from the river at 25th and Quarry streets, presented the Deering street police yesterday with what they believe may be a double murder mystery with robbery as the motive.

The bodies were identified as those of Joseph Wisockis, 44th street and Talman avenue, and Charles Grigas, 6002 South State street, by a sister of Grigas, Mrs. Peter Grigas of 4423 South Fairfield avenue.

Started Out to Buy Store.
Mrs. Grigas said her brother, a former grocer and fruit merchant, was last seen alive a week ago, when he started out with Wisockis in a new auto, presumably to close a deal for another store.

Grigas' body was found by Leroy Plenting, a clerk for the Commonwealth Edison company, who was crossing the river in a skiff with a companion. The body of Wisockis was found by a bridge tender at the Halsted street bridge.

Hint at Bootlegging.
Detective Sergeants Drager and Marier of the Deering street station learned that Grigas had sold out his fruit and grocery business about a year ago. He appeared to be plentifully supplied with money and the police found a lot of soft drink parlors in his clothing, were led to believe he may have been bootlegging.

Mrs. Lida Buck, whose husband bought Grigas' business a year ago, and at whose home he lived, said he left a week ago.

Girl Is Awarded $15,000 Heart Balm by Jurors

Miss Frances Kubal, 22 years old, of 7455 Farrall avenue, was awarded $15,000 heart balm yesterday from John Barlow, south side café owner, after she testified before a jury in Judge Lee W. Cavert's court that Barlow had repudiated a promise of marriage. Six weeks after the birth of her girl child, she said, Barlow married another girl.

LINDHOLM 'LOVE NEST' REVEALED IN MURDER TRIAL

Jury Told of Flying
Visits to Ill Wife.

Details of the dual life led by Warren G. Lindholm, dapper bank teller from Berwyn, in which he was on one hand the "loving husband of an ill wife" and on the other a "Wilson avenue sport who kept a woman he introduced to friends as his wife," were offered to the jury trying the young man for murder yesterday.

Lindholm is charged with having murdered his wife, Mrs. Emily Lindholm, by administering poison to her when she was ill in 1921. The state demands the death penalty. Its theory is that he killed his wife so he might live unmolested with another woman.

Herman Franze, 1714 Thorndale avenue, a real estate agent, when questioned by Prosecutor William McLaughlin, testified that he rented an apartment to Lindholm at 844 North Paulina street on Oct. 7, 1921. Four days later, he said, Lindholm brought in a young blonde woman whom he introduced as "Mrs. Lindholm."

The couple took up their residence in the apartment that day and lived together for more than a month. When shown a photograph of Mrs. Emily Lindholm, the man's real wife, Franze said it was not that of the woman who lived with Lindholm.

All the time Lindholm was living on Paulina street his wife was lying near death in her home in Berwyn. Every evening or so the man went to her bedside, but after a short stay would leave to "go to work," according to testimony. In reality, Prosecutor Harry Pritsker contends Lindholm went to his "love nest."

It was during the trips to Berwyn that he administered poison that resulted in his wife's death, the state charges. Three days after she was buried he eloped to Crown Point and was married to Mrs. Helen Dorband, the woman with whom he was living.

Egyptian Prince Picks Movie Actress for Wife

New York, June 14.—[Special.]—Mohammed Ali Ibrahim, Egypt's "sporting" prince, who, in 1922, spent six weeks and $50,000 of his $200,000 income in this country, and who then said he would rather be shot than married, has quietly revisited these shores and is quietly sailing away again, taking a New York girl, whom, he says, he will marry, whether his royal relative, King Faud of Egypt, consents or not. His choice is Miss Pearl Gineberg, 19, movie actress, and beauty prize winner. The passenger list of the Aquitania, which sailed Tuesday, disclosed the secret.

Some facts about these GOOD CANDIES

It's a question we hear time and again, "How can you possibly afford to offer such fine tasting candy and such excellent quality at this almost ridiculously low price?"

Here's how we can do it—it's simple—we pay no exorbitant main floor rental—we are on the second floor. We also sell direct from the factory—taking on no profit only. We sell in large volume—thus we are satisfied with a small profit.

$128,000 LOSS TO SCHOOLS ON BUSSES BARED

Low Offer Ignored, Bruner
Tells Lundin Jury.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Dr. Frank G. Bruner, director of special schools, testified in the school board conspiracy trial yesterday that after he had received a letter in 1919 from the City Motor Transit company offering busses for the transportation of crippled children at $12.50 or $15 a day for each bus, the Davis-Severinghaus board entered into a contract with this same company for the same busses at $28.50 a day. This represents approximately $128,000 lost, strayed, or stolen.

The letter in question was "borrowed" shortly before the $28.50 contract was signed, Dr. Bruner said. Albert H. Severinghaus, former vice president, got the letter and never returned it, according to Dr. Bruner's story.

Defense introduces "Copy." The defense introduced a letter purporting to be a carbon copy of the one Dr. Bruner had received. In this the price quoted by the company was $25.50 a day for each bus. Here is a discrepancy of $3.00, which will be explained, according to the defense, by the alterations and improvements on busses demanded from the company.

Dr. Bruner testified also in regard to blankets furnished by the old board to crippled children. He had selected a sample of pure wool blanket, he said, and later found that the blankets delivered on this order were shoddy and poor. He went to the supplies department and tried to find the original sample, but this, like the letter, had mysteriously disappeared.

Records and vouchers showing the Hlawatha photograph deal were presented to the jury late in the session. Coroner Oscar Wolf, former secretary of the company, and William Wade, a photograph dealer, will be the first witnesses in this phase of the case today. In this Patrick H. Moynihan, tenth ward political power, and his brother Free are the defendants.

MAJ. GEN. BELL TODAY BECOMES PRESIDENT OF HILL STATE BANK

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE BELL JR., retired, former commander of the sixth corps area and the 13th division, has been elected president of the Hill State bank at 3234 Lawrence avenue, it was announced yesterday. Today he will succeed Charles E. Mitchell, who retires.

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE BELL JR. is the oldest and was for many years the largest in the Albany park district. On his retirement last November, Gen. Bell had completed forty-six years of army service.

In a transaction involving 301 photographs at $157.50 each. One of the photographs has been moved into the courtroom for demonstration purposes. It has been represented by the defense as a "golden thread" instrument, one of the finest ever made. Dispute has arisen as to the style of record to be played for the defense would like to have "Bubbles," or "Lundin Bridge Is Falling Down," or something comic, while the state leans toward more gloomy music, such as "Misere," or "Dance of the Meditations" from "Thais," or a berceuse.

Bruner on Job Eighteen Years. Dr. Bruner has been employed by the board for eighteen years. He was examined by Attorney Marvin E. Barnhart for the state.

Q—In 1919 did you have a talk with Charles J. Forsberg, the business manager, about supplying busses for hauling crippled children to school? A—Yes, I had several talks with him.

Q—Previous to this had you done anything with reference to the price of busses for the following year? A—Yes, I told Forsberg I had charge of the transportation of cripples, and that in February, 1919, I had questioned the price. I told him we were paying too much, that I had correspondence on the subject and was persuaded we could get the busses more cheaply.

Q—What was this correspondence? A—With builders of busses and operators of busses. I told him I thought we could operate more cheaply by buying the busses.

Q—Did you tell him of correspondence with the City Motor Transit company? A—I am not certain.

Recalls Low Price Offer.

Q—Did you have such correspondence? A—Yes, with Mr. Richmond of this company.

Q—Where was this kept? A—In my files.

Q—What was done with it? A—Mr. Severinghaus got it or sent for it.

Q—Was it ever returned to you? A—No.

Q—Did you search? A—Yes.

Q—What was it? A—It was a letter in which Richmond proposed to furnish bus service on a three year basis at a price of $12.50 or $15 a day for each bus. I am not certain whether $12.50 or $15, but my mind runs to $12.50.

Q—When did Severinghaus first speak to you about busses? A—In May or June, 1919.

Q—What did he say? A—He called me to task severely for interfering in the job of the business manager in getting contracts.

Q—What did he say? A—I think he said I should mind my own business.

Q—When was the contract let? A—In September, 1919.

Q—What were the busses furnished for before the contract was made? A—Twenty-one dollars a day per bus.

Q—Was this conversation with Severinghaus before he got your correspondence? A—Yes.

It was shown that Trustee Hart Hanson moved to adopt the recommendation for the contract. President Davis concurred, and Mr. Severinghaus seconded.

Tells of Blanket Deal. Q—Did you have anything to do with selecting blankets for the crippled children's school? A—I consulted with the purchasing department.

The witness was shown a sheet of blanket bids and identified one that he had selected. This was on a sample submitted by Marshall Field & Co.

Q—Later, were you called back to the purchasing department? A—Yes, a month later.

Q—Was any other sample shown? A—No.

you? A—Yes, it was a sample of a good blanket, virgin wool.

Q—Was that sample presented the first time? A—No, I approved that sample when I learned the other I had selected had been rejected.

Q—Did you see the blankets subsequently furnished the schools? A—Yes, in the supply department. They were shoddy filled blankets, part wool and part cotton warp.

Q—Did you talk with any one about this? A—Yes, Mr. Arnold in the supplies department.

Q—Did you see the original sample there? A—No, it was not obtainable.

The records show that 500 blankets were purchased March 20, 1922, for $2,125.

Darrow Cross Examined. Attorney Clarence Darrow cross examined.

Q—Was this sample the only one that contained wool? A—No.

Q—Do you know this price is about one-half the price for all wool? A—Yes.

Q—Do you know they were made for soldiers? A—No.

An advertisement of a bus company in the Daily News, showing an offering of busses at $30 a day, was offered by Mr. Darrow. A letter from school board records was read showing that President Davis was also interested in cutting the price of the busses at the time Dr. Bruner was testifying about.

Q—It looks like you and Mr. Davis agreed on that? A—Yes.

Q—You think you had a letter offering these busses at a lower price? A—Yes.

Q—This was four years ago? A—Yes, the price quoted was $12.50 to $15.

Mr. Darrow read part of a letter which he said was a carbon of the letter described by the witness. It was dated July 10, 1919. In this the company solicited renewal of its contract. The witness said the language sounded natural.

Q—I haven't read it all. Now, let's see if you were not mistaken (reading): "We propose to furnish sixteen motor busses, including a chauffeur for each bus, for three years, at a price of $22 a bus per day. This increase of $1 for each bus is made necessary by the increase in wages and materials."

Q—Don't you think that it was $22 instead of $12, as a matter of consequence, now? A—No, I don't.

Mr. Darrow questioned about the price of gasoline and help at that time in an endeavor to show that $12.50 was an impossible price, but the witness was firm.

Attorney Ben J. Short cross-examined.

Q—Weren't you surprised at this offer? A—Yes; they thought they were going to lose the contract. That was the reason for the low price.

Q—You never took part in a conspiracy? A—No.

Spoehr

Stars and Stripes
All Over City.

John J. Mikos, of 471 E. 12th street, was Flag Day. It was the day which all Chicago was paying to the bit of hunting which he had every evening at the hotel. The world war—every one of his ears and as he machine gun bullet ripped its across his face. It was months he was in the hospital.

Plastic surgery, which accomplished for so many maimed, fallen soldiers. He emerged from the hospital and all but faded wounds in the mirror. A vivid and handsome blond that made him a noticeable figure, stretched across his face and where his ear had been a jagged bit of flesh protruded again.

Just Fortune of War. But John still smiled. It was the day of war. He had his share for compensation.

More rewards were in store for the War Veterans Service. He took him in charge when the hospital through with him and gave him a job. He was a good worker, a good soldier, a good man.

Then He Finds Friends. Yesterday, while on his daily job seeking, Mikos dropped in on the headquarters of the War Veterans Service league in the hotel. There he got a hearing.

"We'll do everything in our power to get you work," Miss Louise, the president, told him. "It may be a long time, but you can get a job. Anytime, we shall have positions for our members, and some one will have a solution of your problem."

"It wouldn't matter so much if I didn't have an aged father and a family to support," Mikos explained. "Government has done everything possible for me, even to trying to get me a job, but it's a funny thing, it seems to want me because of my appearance."

And the "funny" part about it that John Mikos was still smiling.

A baby girl was born yesterday to Mrs. Mikos, 1522 Lawrence street. She was on her way to St. Luke's in a yellow cab.

A Letter about
The Pacific Northwest

Letters such as this reach us daily:

I should like to see something of the Pacific Northwest. Can I make the trip to the Pacific Coast and back in say, six weeks? What is the fare from Chicago? How long does it take to see Yellowstone Park? Will you please outline for me an ideal vacation trip which can be made in the time at my disposal?

Our Reply:

You can make the round trip to the Pacific Coast, very comfortably, in six weeks. As a matter of fact, the majority of people who spend their vacations in the Pacific Northwest are away from home for only about a month.

Greatly reduced rates from all parts of the United States in effect May 15 to September 30. The rate—round trip—from Chicago to Portland, Seattle and Tacoma is only $16.00. The homeward journey can be made by way of Colorado. If this California, it costs $18 more.

On your way West, be sure to see

Yellowstone Park

Geyser Waterfalls! Canyons of gorgeous coloring! The standard Yellowstone tour is made in 4 1/2 days and costs $54, if you stay at the hotels; $48 at the camps. Everything is included—lodging, meals and transportation. There are many other points of interest which you should visit.

Rainier National Park, with 48 square miles of glaciers and hundreds of miles of wild flowers, is only a few hours by auto from Seattle or Tacoma. The Oregon Beach Resorts, less than five hours from Portland and right on the Pacific, are delightful.

If you will let us know, a few days in advance of your departure, we will reserve Pullman space for you. Detailed itinerary is enclosed.

SOLONS PASS OUT THE BOUQUETS AS GETAWAY NEARS

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Springfield, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—Speaker David E. Shanahan, dean of the house and guest of honor at the biennial banquet of the Illinois house of representatives, was presented with a huge silver loving cup by his Republican colleagues tonight.

Representative Little (Champaign), Republican floor leader, was presented with a gold headed cane. House Democratic honored Minority Leader Devine (Lee) with a diamond pin.

"Devine for Governor." A gubernatorial boom for Mr. Devine was launched by his Democratic colleagues at the banquet.

Representative Igoe (Dem., Chicago), former minority leader, started the ball rolling for the Lee county man. Representative Igoe has been mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility. His speech tonight was the first big Democratic gun fired in advance of the 1924 campaign, and in some quarters was interpreted to mean that Mr. Igoe will become a candidate either for attorney general or state's attorney of Cook county.

The fact that the Devine boom was started by Mr. Igoe, who stands high in the councils of his party, is regarded as significant. Further significance is given by the presence of George E. Brennan in Springfield this week. By a vote of 88 to 23 the house today passed the Ronalds bill establishing a state insurance fund for payment of workmen's compensation. The bill now goes to the senate. "It makes it optional with employers to contribute to the state fund or continue under private insurance."

The house, by a vote of 60 to 64, killed the severance tax bill, which placed a tax of 2 cents a ton on all coal produced by Illinois mines and 5 cents a barrel on the state's oil output. The bill, introduced by Representative Johnson (Rep., Ford) provided that the revenue from this tax on natural resources should go into the state school fund. Mr. Johnson estimated that the tax would amount to about $2,000,000 annually.

The house advanced the proposed new medical practice act and the bill by Senator Mason (Rep., Chicago) amending the divorce law by making transmission of venereal disease legitimate grounds for divorce.

Delay in Wet-Dry Test.

Representative Thomas O'Grady (Dem., Chicago) held up his dry law repealer because of the absence of four certain wet votes from the house today. He sounded a bugle call for their return tomorrow, when he hopes to send the bill to third reading.

The wet lost one vote for the remainder of this week when Representative Rutshaw (Rep., Chicago) was called home last night by the sudden death of his wife.

"I believe we have enough votes here today, but the margin is pretty close so I will wait until tomorrow," O'Grady said. "Four of our sure votes are gone. I don't want to take any chance on the flop of a vote or two which might defeat the bill."

The house today advanced to third reading the Anti-Saloon league bill to oust city and county officials who fail to enforce dry laws. This bill has passed the senate.

Senate Passes Inheritance Bill. The senate tonight passed house bill No. 572, which reduces by 50 per cent all inheritance tax fees in Illinois. Two years ago the fees were doubled, with the result persons with large estates sought residences in other states or made extensive gifts or created trusts. The inheritance tax collections ran nearly $6,000,000 for the year ending April 1, last.

The senate also concurred in the house amendments to the fish and game reserve bill. This appropriates $40,000 for fish hatcheries, $50,000 for game preserves, and $10,000 for game and fish stock.

The senate also passed house bill

No. 587, which imposes upon the state the task of keeping the mine taken from running dry in Lake and McHenry counties, commonly known as the Fox lake group. The senate also passed house bill No. 447, increasing the mileage of state aid roads. This bill permits 30 per cent of the road mileage of Cook county to be made state aid roads. The percentage is now 25.

WATCH OUT

There is a rather cruel deception being practiced on women who desire Palmolive Soap. Common soaps are shaped and colored like it. Some are given names which sound like Palmolive. But they offer you nothing of what you seek, which is benefit to your complexion.

Palmolive has won millions of users by its remarkable aid to beauty. The demand has spread almost the world over—wherever beauty lovers exist. Its unique results have made Palmolive the world's leading toilet soap.

What you prize in Palmolive is the skin effects which ordinary soaps never brought you. Then don't be cheated of them. Don't let somebody make you think that a like-looking soap is Palmolive.

Another value you get in Palmolive is a 25-cent quality for 10 cents. That is due to enormous volume.

A beauty soap—a scientific toilet soap for 10 cents is unique. You are cheated of that extra value when you get an imitation. Nothing in all ages has compared with a blend of palm and olive oil for skin beauty.

Never in a soap has that blend been perfected as it is in Palmolive Soap. That is why it won supreme place with beauty-loving people.

Be sure you get it. Look carefully at the name and the wrapper. Otherwise an ordinary soap may be substituted, and you will think that Palmolive has deteriorated.

CONFEREES B PLANS TO SW OMNIBUS

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT] Springfield, Ill., June 14.—Friends of Gov. Small were today in a reported plan to the omnibus appropriation bill. These appropriations the house eliminated perhaps $100,000.

Some of them the state action desires to slip back behind the questionable practice legislature for many years, to older members.

In the conference committee Senator Glenn (Rep., Jackson) that action by it be limited in dispute. Thereby the agreed that it shall not take item of appropriation, except the house and senate have on the amount to be appropriated.

Another motion by Senator provides that the maximum recommended for any item the largest amount which it has approved and the amount shall be lowest still has fixed.

Those who voted for the were: Senator Glenn, Senator (Rep., De Kalb); Senator (Dem., Chicago); Representative (Dem., Lee); Representative (Rep., Marion).

Those who opposed this Senator Meents (Rep., Iroquois) leader for Small in session (or Dalley (Rep., Peoria), Representative (Rep., Chicago), Representative Curran (Rep., Chicago) Speaker Shanahan advised conferees that, under the adopted this year, they had whatever to consider any dispute.

CONFEREES BAR PLANS TO SWELL OMNIBUS BILL

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Springfield, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—Friends of Gov. Small were blocked today in a reported plan to overload the omnibus appropriation bill. From these appropriations the senate and the house eliminated perhaps $1,500,000.

Some of them the state administration desires to slip back. That has been the questionable practice of the legislature for many years, according to older members.

In the conference committee today Senator Glenn [Rep., Jackson] moved that action by it be limited to items in dispute. Thereby the committee agreed that it shall not take up any item of appropriation, except where the house and senate have disagreed on the amount to be appropriated.

Another motion by Senator Glenn provides that the maximum amount recommended for any item shall be the largest amount which either house has approved and the minimum amount shall be lowest either house has fixed.

Those who voted for this motion were: Senator Glenn, Senator Wright [Rep., De Kalb]; Senator Hughes [Dem., Chicago]; Representative DeWine [Dem., Lee]; Representative McMackin [Rep., Marion].

Those who opposed this rule were: Senator Meents [Rep., Iroquois], nominal leader for Small in senate; Senator Duley [Rep., Peoria]; Representative Smekkal [Rep., Chicago], and Representative Curran [Rep., Chicago].

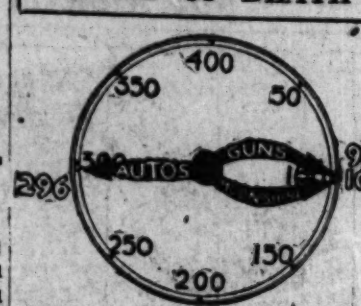

Speaker Shanahan advised the house conferees that, under the new rules adopted this year, they had no right whatsoever to consider any item not in dispute.

Heitler, Four Others Face Prison as Plea Is Denied

"Mike de Pike" Heitler and four others, after a legal battle which extended to the Illinois Supreme court, face immediate imprisonment as a result of a Circuit Court of Appeals decision yesterday denying a rehearing of their case involving violation of the prohibition act. Commitment papers are expected to day by United States Marshal Robert R. Levy.

Heitler was sentenced to serve eighteen months, and fined $10,000. The others are Nathaniel Pecman, fifteen months and $10,000 fine; Mandel Greenberg, a year and a day and $10,000 fine; George F. Quinn, $2,000 fine, and Frank McCann, $2,000 fine.

BOYLE VANISHES TO DODGE JAIL, SHERIFF CHARGES

Waukegan, Ill., June 14.—[Special.]—Michael Boyle, head of the Electrical Workers' union of Chicago, who faces a six months jail sentence for contempt in connection with the Small jury inquiry, has "gone fishing for the rest of the summer."

Sheriff Edwin Ahlstrom, returning from a two day search for Boyle in Chicago, said he was given this information at nearly every former hangout of Boyle.

"There isn't any doubt he has disappeared to avoid spending the summer in jail and being an unwilling witness at the Small jury fixing trial," the sheriff said. "I was told repeatedly by Boyle's friends in Chicago that Mike wouldn't be back until October. They refused to indicate in what section of the country he might be in hiding."

Bond to be Forfeited.
After Ahlstrom had delivered his information to Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney, the latter said: "I will go into court on Saturday and demand that Boyle's bond of $2,000, signed by the Aetna Insurance company, be forfeited. We made a mistake in letting his bonds be placed at such a small figure. There isn't much chance of Boyle assisting us at the conspiracy trial this month."

Seek Hopkins as Judge.
Judge William J. Fulton of Sycamore, Ill., has refused to relieve Judge R. K. Welsh in the trial of the Small case. Pressing business in his own court was given as his reason. An effort is being made to induce Judge Jacob Hopkins of Chicago to try the case.

A LAW THAT DIDN'T WORK.

The bill repealing the prohibition of marriage within a year after divorce has been passed by the house, and it is to be hoped, will be enacted. The prohibition was well intended, but, like many other moral enactments, did not work out as expected. It has not put an effective check upon hasty divorce or collusion or added, so far as an observer can see, to the sanctity of the marriage bond. It has added to the confusion of our marriage laws, created technical illegitimacies, unjust to innocent children, and clouded property rights. The notion that a year's ban upon remarriage would discourage infidelity is one of those fallacies of reform which is always proposing to produce morality by law. This prohibition offers an excellent illustration of Herbert Spencer's comment on reformers, who, he said, were often like an unskilled worker trying to hammer out dinges in a piece of metal. Every time he strikes a blow he flattens one dent and raises another.

TWO GREAT TRAINS COME OF AGE.

Today is the twenty-first anniversary of the Twentieth Century Limited, and of its rival, the Broadway Limited, which represent the highest type of passenger transportation in the world, considering not only its equipment, operation, and the importance of the points connected.

We congratulate the railways which initiated and have maintained this service, and we would include in our congratulations the American railroad man generally, whose skill, enterprise, and devotion it represents. The American railways have been under pretty constant criticism from politicians and disaffected patrons for a generation, and it is in the interest of the public not less than of the railways themselves that some consideration be given to the unequal efficiency they have achieved and what it means to the country. American railroad represents the highest mark reached in transportation and, granting its shortcomings, such as they are, we doubt if its vociferous critics could manage it better. Faults of management there are, but they are not going to be diminished by political manipulation. What Americans want and most need is efficiency of operation, and it is private initiative, not political control, which has given us that and will, if permitted, give us more.

So the coming of age of the Century and the Broadway Limited is worth celebrating. At the same time perhaps it is not ungracious to suggest two small details for improvement. Why not install a telephone service on the trains? Light military wire might be used to connect the cars. Much time would be saved in this way for trainmen and passengers.

Another detail which calls for attention is the baggage service at the New York terminal. There are not enough men to handle the hand baggage, and passengers who fail to get help have to wait or carry their own. Trucks should be used in Chicago. The companies should not neglect the comfort of their patrons in this respect.

THE MYSTERY OF LEIGHTON MOUNT.

A coroner's jury finds that Leighton Mount came to his death in a manner not determined, but is of the opinion that it was at the "hands of some unknown person or persons." The jury recommends that the police continue the investigation and hold on a charge of murder.

A good deal of criticism was directed at the Chicago newspapers in connection with this case. The Tribune has printed some letters of complaint. One reproach was that a murder had been committed by two of Ragen's Colts and not much space was given to it. People connected with Northwestern university, or interested in it, were provoked or embittered by the manner in which reporters handled the story and by the emphasis the papers gave it.

This young man, matriculated at the university, disappeared after a class rush, and twenty months later a skeleton, identified convincingly as his, was found weighted by rocks under a pier in Evanston. That, whatever the solution of the mystery, is not an ordinary murder story. The faintest appreciation of what is dramatic and of what is news would indicate its appeal to the imagination and the sympathy.

Such murders as that the two Colts committed are a part of the almost routine crime of the city, and if newspapers gave them much space they would be rightly condemned for portraying only the drab of life. What happened to Leighton Mount was different. It involved all the dramatic details of mystery. That accounts for it as news. No one believes that the young man was deliberately murdered in the class rush, although he might have been killed in it accidentally. Accidents may happen in such affairs. The authorities and the reporters tried their best to find out what had happened and the attitude of the university was one of hush. That was the mistake.

The university would have been much wiser if it had concerned itself with the case in the beginning. The theory that the young man had run away or that he had killed himself could be considered, but it was the presumption at the university that he had done one or the other. It even was held that he was not sufficiently associated with the school, having only matriculated, to make it a school concern, although his disappearance was connected with a class rush which might explain it.

If the university from the beginning had been determined to find out what had happened, it would not have been criticized, even if it had been found that Mount had been killed by accident and that his body had been concealed by frightened students. The mistake was trying to protect the university reputation by minimizing the matter, hushing it, presuming that at the worst it was merely an episode reflecting on the boy's character, etc.

When the skeleton was discovered the university continued to take offense at reasonable attempts to determine how the young man had been killed, whether he had been murdered, how his body came to be under the pier. It would be a queer conception of human nature to think that people would not be interested in such a tragedy, and a conception of justice still more queer to think that the good name of a school should retard any search for information. The university should have been the first to want it.

FOR AN ALL-AMERICAN RAILWAY SYSTEM.

The controversy in the American rubber industry, discussed by Scrutator yesterday, is more than financial or business matter. Rubber is an essential in modern warfare. Hence it is an essential to national defense. But an essential supply located on the other side of the world is not a safe reliance.

There is a proposal to develop rubber plantations in the Philippines. As a commercial proposition this may be highly advisable, but as a defense proposition it is worse than nothing. The Philippines are the most vulnerable and the most endangered region under the flag. Rubber supply in the islands could be easily cut off by Japan or Great Britain and would be a valuable prize for them to hold. It would be a deficit, strategically, rather than an asset.

Furthermore, American owned rubber in the East Indies would avail us little in a serious war unless we commanded the sea or were allied with the power commanding the long route from the east to our shores.

From the viewpoint of war requirements, therefore, there is but one course to follow, and that is to develop rubber within our secure reach. Rubber in the wild state was formerly the chief supply and South America was its source. But the demands have far outstripped the possibilities of wild rubber and cultivation is necessary. We have therefore a clear duty to develop the cultivation of rubber on this continent, if necessary, with government aid. On the isthmus and in South America we could probably keep access to supply, by sea, but it would be wiser to have communication also by land.

This is to emphasize again the importance of an all-American railway system. We have the physical beginnings of this system now, but there are gaps to fill and extensions to be made. American statesmen and individuals who are so preoccupied with the needs of Europe would show better sense if they turned their attention to this problem. While they are watching Europe they might note how important a place railway development has in the policies of the great powers, and, turning to our own country, they may discover that we are asleep so far as the connecting of our country with the rest of the hemisphere is concerned.

We suggest to the President and his government that they adopt as a definite policy and purpose the development of a railway system connecting us directly with South America. Such a system would include and extend the Mexican railways under friendly agreement and pass down the isthmus at least to the Canal Zone. But it ought not to stop there. It should proceed to connect up with Colombia, Venezuela, and Brazil, and pass down the Pacific coast to Chile.

This is a great task, but by no means an impossible one, and its benefits to all the peoples of North and South America would be enormous. It would be a modernizing agency of first rank for the backward countries, and would bring us into mutually profitable relations with our sister republics of the western world. Better by far invest our wealth in developing our neighbors to the south than pour our money into countries which are wasting their strength in perpetual conflicts, both warlike and economic.

REFUSING MONEY TO SUE SMALL.

Evidently the $75,000 appropriation for the attorney general to prosecute the civil suit against Small et al. for the recovery of state money had to be killed either in the senate or the house. The senate passed the bill and the buck to the house and it did the dirty work. Such operations generally are cut up fifty-fifty between the house and senate and the senate decided this was to be the work of the house.

Small is saved the pain or the pleasure of vetoing the appropriation which would have been used for the suit against him. The state prosecutor will go on with it, but he'll do it without a fund set aside for the purpose. The legislature at Small's bidding already had sustained vetoes which deprived the attorney general of $500,000, and he is trimmed financially as close as Small can figure it.

Similar proceedings two years ago made it necessary for citizens to contribute money for the prosecution of the Herrin cases. Mr. Brundage may be passing the hat again to raise funds to find out what became of the difference between 8 per cent paid by the Chicago packers on $10,000,000 of state money and the 2 per cent received by the state when Small was treasurer.

THE ANTI-CIGARETTE LAW.

A mania has arisen for telling us what is moral and what is immoral. Our modern saviors are showering on the people in all the states of the Union the doubtful blessing of their laws. Thus it came to pass in Utah: a pressure was brought to bear on the legislature there until a law was adopted which forbade the smoking of cigarettes in public places. The law did not uplift the people any, but led to the arrest of prominent men, such as lawyers, mine owners, and bankers. And the inevitable consequence was that the legislature had once more to investigate the statute thus passed by them. After it has hardly been two years in force its teeth have fallen out already!

Will this example teach our modern puritans the lesson that the majority of the people is determined to have its way, regardless of what a handful of persons may succeed by hook or by crook in having enacted into law? We believe that the example will have no such effect. Narrow minded persons who consider it their mission to reform the world will continue to watch for a propitious moment to foist on the people intolerant and sheer lived laws.

EPITAPH OF A CHILD

Here lies entombed—
A bud that never bloomed—
A little warm child-heart, all chilled:
A promise unfulfilled.
O, nesting bird
And all live things that stirred
With Spring's first palpitating breath,
What could ye know of Death?

Fond April world,
With all your green unfurled,
Ye cannot be the same again:
Your banners faint in vain.

A little child,
Once free as ye, and wild—
A bud that nevermore shall bloom—
Lies in the tomb.

SOVEREIGN INTEREST!

(Fond de Lac (Wis.) Daily Commonwealth.) Several large signs have been ordered by the city to warn motorists that they are approaching the city limits and to slow down. They will replace the welcome signs now on the highways.

SHUTTERED theaters are depressing things; and ten of Chicago's possible eighteen are shuttered, with an eleventh in use for a movie; the count has nothing to do with variety-shows. Half-an-hour's asking why will provide a choice of reasons: many theaters, not enough plays, prices too high, the war-tax, the ticket-brokers. Bad transportation is not mentioned until we mention it. Nor is prohibition, which, in removing some of the after-theater allure, is a factor. The Loop is a graveyard at 11:30; the hip-pocket crowd takes its symptomatic sign to the outlying cabarets and the road-houses.

APPROACH to the Loop is mean and messy from any direction save as one may use Michigan Boulevard. The Loop, from 7:30 until half-hour after the curtain goes in a huddle and a muddle; and it is again from 10:30 until the crowd struggles out. And it's always a struggle, whether you essay it afoot, with your auto, in surface-car, or by L. And it will be worse and worse for the theaters till we get underground tubes and the raised footways.

THE number of theaters is about right for the population of Chicago. Producers annually warehouse more than the number of plays needed here sooner than past transportation from the East to an uncertain theatrical market. Ashton Stevens writes his opinion that the recent season in the drama was the public's, and not the managers', flivver; and he's within the facts: we were not good to the best plays, nor to the most interesting. Our list may not correspond, item by item, with Mr. Stevens's list; but he is right so far as there is correspondence.

PRICES will find their level of repose when the managers stop kidding themselves about raised rates for the success and the Souda, and raised rates for the hits and the hucksters. The brokers could not survive a fortnight if ignored. The man who pays a premium for his seat has none save himself to blame, unless he happen to be uninformed that the law compelling him to go to the theater is non-operative pending appeal to the Supreme Court.

AS to the tax, it goes partly to paying interest on our debt to Lafayette and partly to paying wages to the gentlemen who are induced by the Federal Government to take part in the haremish necessary cut-walking known as enforcing the Eighteenth. Precarious employment, at best; for our republic, like all others, is ungrateful, and usually fires the gentlemen before they acquire more than half-a-million through intensive partnership with other gentlemen who think that the Eighteenth is the best of all possible amendments.

SEEING in his home-town paper, the Bushnell (Ill.) Record, that Mr. and Mrs. James Oulton had celebrated their sixty-fifth wedding-anniversary, P. D. Gog urged that we reprint the item under the heading AND WILL GOGG KNOW?

RIVERVIEW'S ad in the surface-cars, 900 World's Fastest Living Dogs, impels W. J. F. to ask if these be the last of the Loopounds.

CONCERNING FOLK

Aaron Abba (may his name be blessed!) in Polk's Directory leads all the rest. Roger Zarelli (may his star ascend!) Banks in the same bright spotlight—at the end. They start and close the glittering roll of names that designate our city's gypsies and dames. Both representing in their chosen way Empurpled Labor's pomp and accepted sway. Within these honored leaves perchance may lurk Some folks who use their think-tanks when they work.

Beepindred here and there among the rolls: Too few to cut much figure at the polls. It takes a year to build this bulging tome— And sometimes four to build a four-room home.

R. W. W.

READING this in Temple Bailey's "The Dim Lantern": "So, she knew life, which is a bigger thing sometimes than books..."—reading that, Salice buys timbre-poste "way out in Oklahoma City to rush him a note asking: 'Isn't that sometimes' ferociously mild?'... We don't know, Salice: we never get so far in a book like this.

HERMIONE, also reckless in the matter of postage, writes to tell us that three Scotsmen attended church, and that, just before the plate was sent on its rounds, one fainted and two others carried him out, and then valve-handles that we need not print it, as the joke had been told in Keith's. [We should have said that the scene is Toledo, where they have Keith's and things of the kind.]... The difficulty is that we didn't read the poem until after we had decided that the story was new.

RESIDER, sometimes even the two-day may have something new.

OR, further seeking to square oneself if the story be old, we take refuge in what a Chicago manager of two-days told us when we complained that the movie-projector didn't give time to read the cast and subtitles: "Why waste juice? People who go to vaudeville can't read!"

DEAFNESS.

THE improved hygiene of the faecal area, which includes the tonsils and adenoids, will result eventually in a decrease of deafness just as it has already resulted in a decrease in rheumatism. However, the fact that years elapse between cause and effect, between infections of the fauces and the permanent partial deafness which results, will make the control of deafness due to faecal infection a slow process. Just as in the case with tuberculosis, heart disease, and all other conditions in which the clinical manifestation lags years behind the cause.

And then there is the deafness due to other causes. All in all, we have a deafness problem for a long time. I am sure that out of this long continuing struggle will come development of aids for the partially deaf ear just as there has come such a rich harvest of aids for the poor seeing eye.

When the sound wave, in its relation to hearing both in general and in relation to the individual ear, has been as carefully studied as has the light wave in general and in its relation to the individual eye, the scientist will have done his part. I do not think that he, as yet, has done his full share. When he has acquired himself two other groups of people will have to do their part.

First, the partially deaf man will have to view his need and remedy just as the man with poor sight does his. There is no more reason for discrimination to use aids for hearing than there is for discrimination to use aids for seeing. And some men affect glasses for the looks of the thing.

Poor hearing is in no sense a disgrace. Once the art of fitting the ear is developed to the present point of eye fitting, poor hearing will not be regarded as in any sense a cause of inefficiency. There's the rub just now! People do not want to be known as deaf because they fear they will be regarded as inefficient. This fear should go the way of fear of inefficiency from poor vision.

And, finally, the general public must come to accept partially deaf men as they now accept men with poor sight. That they will do when aids to hearing are accepted as being on a plane with aids to vision. Deafness may be honorable, but it is lonesome. I know this as one of a stock who develop the defect with age.

IF HUSBAND DIES INTERSTATE.

Chicago, June 1.—To the Legal Friend of the People.—A man and wife have a joint account and keep a safety deposit box in which he has some bonds.

1. If he should die without a will, would the wife be allowed by law to cash these bonds without going through legal proceedings? They have two children who are over age.

2. Are the children to share or does it all go to the mother?

3. Could it be arranged so that she would be the beneficiary?

4. Is a will valid if witnessed by two children of legal age?

5. Is it necessary for a lawyer to draw up a will to make it legal? R. J. M.

6. A man dies, leaving a will, the bonds would, upon the bare facts stated, descend two-thirds to the children and one-third to the surviving wife.

7. As to the matter in which the bonds are, the man is not prepared to give his will.

8. No, if the children are not beneficiaries.

9. No, but it is nearly always advisable.

CHICAGO. If the woman who is to be married is distinguished from her less favored sister, the difference is not in her more precious than the fact that she is never astonished, or at least never seems so, and, being thoroughly posted in the art of dress, fashion, is quite prepared for the first sign of advent, if she is not herself the one to introduce it. Not so those less favored by fortune. Craning necks, heads bobbing as if through some freak of nature, they had been asked to the body in a doublet of dress to that obtained in the original; even onlookers would following the first sign of surprise, in the matter in which the actress goes great the first individual who does a new and to them singular fashion. Such has been the case with the new dress, in respect to a certain proportion of the people who are not prepared to see the new dress as close-fitting skirts.

THE TURF THE GRAND RACING RACES. The Chicago man who attended the races at Oak Ridge, Ill., here all returned, and present a most melancholy appearance. They left here for the purpose of capturing the countryman, and when the races were over, found themselves badly beaten. A great deal of their money has gone where it will certainly do them the least good. Their first stock was absolutely wrecked at the meeting, being beaten by almost every Michigan "pig" that came along. When it was discovered that from Oak Ridge could not make decent time, and that it would be useless to try to win the race, the Chicago party backed Pilot Temple in the trot for horses that never beat R. S. Even here they met with a serious defeat.

THREE SLICKER SALESMEN!

Chicago, June 7.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I purchased a car from an agency which handled two makes of cars and also used cars. The car was advertised and represented by the salesman as a 1922 model, and in perfect mechanical condition. I paid him cash, telling them that I knew nothing about cars and would have to rely on them to sell me something good. Since buying it I find that it is a 1919 model and the gears are utterly worn out. Can I get my money back?

The effect of a misrepresentation as to the age of a second hand auto is a question that often arises out of court, but on which we find no reported court decisions. It is difficult to see how the date is material except for possible bearing on how long the car is worn, or how much it differs in design from present models, both of which are points on which the dealer is bound to inform the buyer should inform himself by inspection at time of purchase.

WOMAN WHO TOLD ALL WINS CHILD CLAIMED BY TWO

Mother Love Shields No Man, Judge Rules.

A case said to be without precedent in English or American law, paralleled only by the biblical parentage dispute settled by King Solomon, was decided yesterday by Judge Joseph E. David when he ruled that a year old Lena, Polka is the daughter of Mrs. Julia Wasylyski and not the child of Mrs. Nicholas Lenz of 4512 South Whipple street.

In the same decision he removed the stigma of illegitimacy attached to the child's name and gave her the lawful name of Prybylski.

One Weeps, One Rejoices.

When the court's decision was given, one woman, radiant with joy, clasped her breast a little bundle of baby clothes and the other, with a face of woe, wept and sobbed.

Mrs. Lenz had declared the child was born to her through a Caesarian operation performed by the physician, but refused to disclose his name, saying it would ruin him, as he is married and the father of three children.

Mrs. Prybylski declared the child had been born to her in a Galician army camp at Stryl, Poland, during the war. She produced a birth certificate.

Frees Mrs. Lenz of Blame.

Based his decision for the most part on the documentary evidence and upon his belief that no mother would sacrifice her child to save the reputation of the father, Judge David ruled that Mrs. Lenz had been led to make her claims through mother love born of an inhibited maternity complex.

"But let no blame be attached to Mrs. Lenz, who loved the child," he said. "Though she may have used unfair means to get it, many things may be forgiven because of love."

Cleveland, who was formerly in the real estate business in Chicago, according to the finding of investigators for the department, obtained a 160 acre tract near Perry, Okla., and divided it into 17,424 parcels, each twenty feet square, which he has been selling through the mails by means of literature "which abounds in flagrantly false and fraudulent statements," according to the postoffice department.

For your permanent home SKOKIE HEIGHTS

IN GLENCOE, ON THE NORTH SHORE
35 MINUTES FROM MADISON STREET

When you build a permanent home, naturally you want it to be situated in a community of suitable character, in an environment of natural beauty and desirable social contacts, and where undesirable elements are unable to intrude. Choice of location, you will agree, is certainly a vital matter for the finest house, poorly located, is depreciated in value and becomes undesirable as a home. In Skokie Heights you will find a limited number of extremely choice residential sites, which, for character and beauty of location, value, and future-protecting restrictions, represent an opportunity that we have not seen equaled in our twenty-nine years of operation on the North Shore.

McGuire & Orr

THOSE who have not had opportunity to visit Skokie Heights may yet do so, and to their advantage, for some of the choicer homesites will undoubtedly be available until the first of the week.

Skokie Heights is the name given a new and singularly choice group of North Shore homesites in Glencoe, between Skokie and Green Bay Roads, in the very heart of the North Shore, and conveniently accessible to the loop, which were fully described in our full page advertisement of last week.

It is a high, undulating tract of partially wooded land, situated in one of the finest residential communities, very close to the two principal thoroughfares; and yet there will be a complete absence of through auto traffic, as Skokie Heights may be entered only by way of its own private roadways. This insures safety for children and privacy for home owners.

Picturesque winding streets and all improvements, even to telephone service, are rapidly nearing completion, and spacious building sites are now offered at prices considerably lower than those obtained for property almost immediately adjacent.

There are only sixty-one lots in Skokie Heights, and these are of average size of 100 feet in width by 200 feet in depth. The prices range from $65 to $100, per front foot, and there are no other homesites on the North Shore, situated as these are, that five to ten thousand dollars will buy. Indeed, there are few comparable sites to be had at any price.

Property purchased in Skokie Heights carries with it absolute assurance of the high character of neighboring home owners. It is protected by restrictions which guarantee that only homes will be built that are of sufficient value to be in keeping with their surroundings. Wide building lines and perpetual restrictions against business, apartment and hotel construction insure the maintenance of Skokie Heights as a high-class residential community.

You can motor via Sheridan Road to Glencoe, and go directly to the property, or to our Glencoe office on Park Avenue—opposite the Northwestern Station. It is from 35 to 40 minutes by train from the Chicago Terminal of the Northwestern Railroad, and is also quickly reached by the North Shore Electric from Adams Street or points north. To see Skokie Heights by appointment, simply phone or call at our general offices in the Title and Trust Bldg., Chicago—the phone number is Randolph 2981. The Glencoe office and an office right on the property are both open daily and Sunday.

Complete description of Skokie Heights and its favored situation upon the North Shore have been incorporated in an attractive booklet—"The Story of Skokie Heights"—to obtain your copy, simply write McGuire & Orr or telephone Randolph 2981.

DEMOCRATS SHY AT WETNESS OF SMITH AS PILOT

Might Be 'Running Mate,'
French Lick Gossip.

BY DONALD EWING.

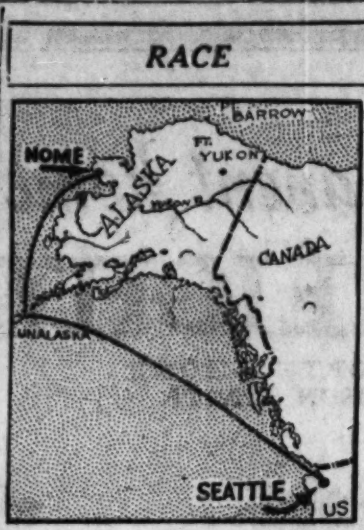

French Lick, Ind., June 14.—(Special.)—Gov. Al Smith of New York will have to do more than write a wet check to get middle western support for the Democratic presidential nomination. Under present conditions all the eastern damp hope can expect is support as running mate for some Democrat who can muster wet strength and at the same time not supply wholesale antagonism for the dries.

That is the word that is being conveyed to the New York governor as he goes and rests here, it was learned today from authoritative sources. While Smith himself still refuses even to discuss presidential possibilities, his recent signing of the prohibition repeal in New York threw him so prominently into the political limelight that the middle western Democratic leaders have been forced to suddenly make decisions which otherwise might not have come for months.

Tom Taggart with Smith.

Tom Taggart, the Indiana leader of Democracy, is the only chieftain now here with Smith, but George Brennan of Chicago may come in soon, and rumor says that Wilbur Marsh, treasurer of the Democratic national committee also is expected.

Whether these men confer or not, it is known that they and other middle western leaders feel that, so far as any decision can be made at this time, a candidate running with Smith as his chief vote getting ability will never be the man for the presidential nomination. Answering this, Smith's friends

Nome, Alaska, June 14.—Making their way through ice, the steamers Victoria and Buford from Seattle arrived here yesterday, the first vessels of the season. The Victoria arrived forty-five minutes ahead of the Buford, thus retaining the distinction held for many years of being the vessel to open navigation for the season.

Repealer a Boomerang.
Close friends of the governor say that if he becomes a candidate it will be on his record as governor and not as a wet.

This feeling, however, cannot be said to be final. Those in touch with the situation point out it is a long time before the convention. During the next few months the Democrats will spend most of their time feeling out the public pulse. "Brennan, Murphy, Taggart, Marsh, and the rest must have information before they can act," one man said today. "All of them are watching Smith closely, but it's certain right now that they don't feel that Smith's wetness would put him over."

Taggart himself has nothing to say. Asked about Henry Ford, the Indiana car admitted that Henry makes good automobiles. Smith is a rotten goifer, judging from his 126 score, Taggart said, while as for McAdoo—look at the pretty picture William just sent Tom.

U.S. DETERMINED TO PUSH 12 MILE LIMIT RUM PACT

Washington, D. C., June 14.—(Special.)—The result of criticism in some quarters of the administration's proposal for a treaty with maritime powers extending the right of search to the twelve mile limit, was to call forth an even more emphatic declaration of the government's intention to push the liquor treaty to a successful conclusion. The administration is firmly convinced, it was asserted, that there is no legal bar to such a treaty, and that it will be ratified by the senate.

Neither the eighteenth amendment, nor the Supreme court of the United States ever intended, it was declared, that reasonable and practical steps should not be taken to make prohibition effective. The intention of the constitutional amendment, the administration spokesmen declared, was to prevent the importation of liquor for beverage purposes.

The principal point involved, namely, whether the constitutional amendment finally and definitely prohibits the bringing of liquor under seal into the three mile limit, has never been brought specifically before the Supreme court, it was asserted. Should the Supreme court make such a definite decision on the specific point, all hope of alleviating the present international situation by the treaty method or by congressional action would be set aside until thirty-six states had modified the eighteenth amendment.

THAT $1,000,000 LEVIATHAN TRIP TO COST $13,000

Democrats Arranged Trial Excursion, Lasker Says.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.) Washington, D. C., June 14.—[Special.]—A. D. Lasker, chairman of the Democratic national committee, today declared the cost of the trial trip of the Leviathan would be a million dollar joy ride, as it would have had to be spent irrespective of whether a single guest was carried.

Provision for the trial trip was made in December, 1919, by a shipping board headed by John Barton Payne, under a Democratic administration, and the present board approved the plans then made, Chairman Lasker said.

Specifications for the reconditioning of the Leviathan required that a trial trip be made and the cost was one of the items making up the total cost of $3,000,000 for the reconditioning work, Mr. Lasker said.

Guests Necessary on Trip.

Experts in charge of the reconditioning insisted that 400 to 500 guests be taken on the trial trip in order that the complex organization and service machinery of the ship might be broken in, the chairman said, adding that it has been the universal custom on the part of shipping companies throughout the world to invite nonpaying guests on the trial ships of new vessels.

"I have refrained from answering what seemed to me an absurd criticism of the trial trip to be taken by the Leviathan next week, but I feel that the recent statement issued by the Democratic national committee is such an unfortunate utterance that it should not go unchallenged," said Mr. Lasker.

"The truth of the matter is that this very trip was fully provided for by experts engaged in December, 1919, by a shipping board headed by John Barton Payne under the Democratic administration."

Trip Planned Long Ago.

"If the critics had only taken the trouble to look up the records, they would have found that the plans and specifications for the reconditioning of the Leviathan were not hastily made, but that every detail, including the testing of the great ship in the proposed trial trip, was worked out long in advance, even to the last dollar that would be spent."

"The experts who prepared the plans and specifications for the reconditioning of the Leviathan, and who will still have no change of heart, were engaged by the board under John Barton Payne in December, 1919."

"When the government took over the Leviathan during the war, the machinery had not been tampered with but in face of some necessary repairs, which are minor compared to those now made, sent the ship on more than a five day's trial cruise in southern waters—five precious days necessarily lost to war transport."

Custom to Invite Guests.

"The cost of reconditioning the Leviathan was more than $3,000,000. The cost of the trial trip, as proposed by the experts and authorized by the board fully sixteen months ago, was $120,000, of which $107,000 would have been spent."

BREWERY LOSES BIG SHIP ORDER; BLAMES LASKER

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—[United Press.]—The United States shipping board has canceled an order for the Anheuser-Busch, Inc., a brewing company, to "stock" the steamship Leviathan for its trial junketing trip to the West Indies, officials of the brewing company announced here today.

August A. Busch issued a statement charging that Chairman Lasker canceled the order as a retaliatory measure against Busch's statement last summer calling attention to sale of liquor on United States shipping board vessels.

The canceled order was for "near beer."

Diving Deep Into Summer

And the Important Problem of What Will Look Best in the Water

NO doubt, you are fathoms deep in that all-engrossing topic of what to wear in bathing this summer. This is the time to decide, when Bathing Togs are so gay and becoming that they fairly inspire you to perfect the Australian crawl stroke which has defeated you in past seasons. And you will be diving headlong into the jolly task of selecting the most becoming Suit and Cap.

The first, sitting on the pier, wears a worsted Bathing Suit with a fiber cross bar pattern, priced at $12.75. Diver's Cap, 50c.

The second, standing on the pier, wears a worsted Bathing Suit with lacings on neck and skirt; all colors at $10.75. And over it a terry cloth Bath Coat at $8.75. Aviation Cap, 75c.

The third, standing in the boat, wears a spun silk Suit with wool tights, priced at $15. The Cap to match this Suit is $3.25.

Timely Topics

Century Mail Collected A Little Later Now

Eastern mail may now be deposited a little later in the special box at the State and Washington entrance of the First Floor. For it is now collected for the fast trains at 11:45, due to the change in time occasioned by daylight saving here.

Early Luncheon Served in the Tea Rooms for Early Morning Shoppers

A shopping tour planned for the morning attains an enviable climax when it is ended by an early luncheon in the Tea Rooms. They are all opened by ten o'clock, and in the Narcissus and East Rooms, cool drinks are served from the fountain, in addition to all the other delectable things on the summer menu.

Or if you prefer, a delicious breakfast might be ordered in the Wedgwood Room between eight-thirty and eleven, to be followed by your shopping.

Silk Hosettes for Bathing $1 and $1.85

WETS, DRY URGE ENFORCEMENT OF ALL BASIC LAW

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., June 14.—(Special.)—There is a growing demand among members of congress, in view of the agitation over prohibition enforcement, for enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution.

Although much already has been said during the controversies over enforcement of the eighteenth amendment regarding the nullification of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, the issue has not yet been seriously raised in congress. Now it threatens to be made an issue when congress meets next December, and there are political leaders of both parties who feel that it cannot be dodged in the party conventions next year.

Government Ignores Law.

It is being argued that respect for organic law cannot be assured the country over if certain provisions of that law are being enforced with a great show of force while other provisions are being deliberately ignored, both by the people and by the government.

These amendments, designed to enfranchise the Negro, have been consistently evaded by most of the southern states, and only sporadic efforts have been made by congress to compel the south to carry them into effect.

Congress has gone to great lengths in its determination to put the eighteenth amendment into full operation, and the interests back of this action deplore the indifferent attitude of a large proportion of the population toward this amendment.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, discussing the matter today, said that he was not opposed to the literal enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. He stood squarely on the law as a whole, he said, but he pointed out that there was a wide difference between the sentiment which brought about the ratification of the three amendments.

What Wets Think.

The wet point of view is expressed by Representative John Philip Hill (Rep., Maryland), an uncompromising anti. He argues that it is foolish for the government to expect popular approval of the eighteenth amendment, intimately affecting the habits and tastes of tens of millions of people when the government winks at the violation of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments.

"I am for the enforcement of all amendments," Mr. Hill said, "if any are to be enforced. If the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments are to be ignored, then who can blame the country if the eighteenth is disregarded?"

250,000 Acres of Land Opened to Ex-Servicemen

Washington, D. C., June 14.—More than 250,000 acres of public land in six western states were ordered thrown open today by the interior department for homestead entry to ex-service men of the world war. Exact dates for the filing of entries will be announced by the land officers in the various states.

Injunctions Hit 52 "Soft Drink" Parlors in Chicago

A drive by prohibition agents against soft drink parlors resulted yesterday in injunctions being issued against fifty-two of them. Similar action will be taken shortly against 200 other places, it was said by C. W. Middlekauff, special assistant to the attorney general.

Red Crown Is Quality Gasoline

It is made to generate power in your engine—the kind of power which makes you smile as your car goes spinning over the roads, up hill or down, without apparent effort.

It is a gasoline of high quality and the quality is maintained. You, who use it regularly, can absolutely depend upon it, for it is always the same and may be obtained everywhere—every few miles in the country and every few blocks in the city.

That Red Crown quality is sustained is evidenced by its continual use by 2½ million motorists.

Red Crown Gives Superior Service

It starts easily—summer or winter; it enables your car to get away quickly; to accelerate smoothly, and delivers to your rear wheels all the power and speed your car is capable of developing.

As to mileage, Red Crown gives more miles per gallon than any gasoline you can buy.

Brown— luminous depths that invite and question—

Fire and shadow, miraculously blended—rich, warm tones of old paintings—fugitive fires that blaze and die and blaze—will o' the wisps, lurking in gleaming gossamer—luring, irresistible. The magic of "a touch of henna" exalts the glory of her hair.

Blonde— soft gold of dreams and memories—

Grain-gold, undulating to the wind's caress—wine-gold, sparkling in crystal goblets—sun-gold, flashing upon rippling waters—the gold of passion, of quest and conquest—treasure gold. And what can add so much to gold as the glow "a touch of henna" gives?

Brunette—woven spell of dark mysteries—

Silken lustre telling of subtle allure—lyric sheen of moonlight—magic shimmer of starlight—velvet glow, promising secret intensities—slumbering fires that foretell new dawn and new sunsets. In the night of her hair—the dim amber-glow of "a touch of henna."

"My secret?—

A touch of henna

for the hair of every woman, to bring out all its beauty."

An interview with an internationally famous Hairdresser—

By HELENA J. KNIGHT

THE beau monde of Paris and the social world of New York acknowledge him a master of his art.

"Madame desires—?" His bow was perfect.

"Tell me. What do you use that works such miracles with the hair? How do you give it such freshness, such life, such lustre? What is your secret?"

Smiling, he shrugged his shoulders.

"My secret? It is hardly that. It is known to every woman who makes of beauty a cult. It is simple. A touch of henna!"

"Henna?" I confess I was surprised.

"Ah, madame," he said quickly. "I know what you think—what many think. But in every art are refinements. Some misuse them, but the artist gives them their subtle values. So it is with henna. The artist takes just a suggestion of its warmth and fire, and with it touches madame's hair. The effect is magical!"

"That is beautifully said, monsieur," I could not help exclaiming. "But the color of the hair—does it change?"

"But no, madame! The blonde remains a blonde; the brunette, a brunette. But the transformation! Ah! After a henna shampoo, the hair of each is radiant with its own natural color and quality—and with more! All women do not know, madame, what a wealth of undiscovered beauty their hair holds for them if they would but bring it out with henna."

"And you would recommend that every woman use it?"

"Every woman—provided she can obtain it properly prepared. For then her shampoo will add more to her charm than it has ever done before."

PRESIDENT OF CHINA QUILTS FACTIONS

BY CHARLES DALL

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Column)
(Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune)
PEKING, June 14.—The Chinese president, Yuan Shikai, has accomplished the results:

First, the elimination of Li Yuan-Hung, who resigned with the eventual election of his first executive.

Second, the political union of the Christian general, Feng Yuxiang, with the reascendency of Guo Yu, conqueror of Changsha. The former president was from arrest at Tientsin after he had formed his cabinet. He had taken the presidential seal to the French hospital in which he was recovering from his wounds. He held out sufficiently for a temporary group of the opposition to form a combine with the members, whereby these could at a conference of the victors tonight Kuo Ling-jen, minister of the interior, was premier. # PRESIDENT OF CHINA QUILTS AS FACTIONS WAR

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PEKING, June 14.—The coup d'état by the Tientsin clique of the Chihli party has accomplished the following results:
First, the elimination of President Li Yuan-Hung, who resigned today, with the eventual election of Tiao Kun as first executive.
Second, the political suicide of the Christian general, Feng Yu Hsiang, with the reascendency of Gen. Wu Pei Fu, conqueror of Chang Lo-Lin.
The former president was released from arrest at Tientsin after he informed his captors that his wife had taken the presidential seals with her to the French hospital in Peking, where she gave them up. However, he held out sufficiently for the parliamentary group of the opposing force to form a combine with the southern members, whereby these gain control. At a conference of the victorious factions tonight Kuo Ling Jai, present minister of the interior, was chosen premier. Kuo Ling Jai is preparing to administer the government until parliament either averts civil war or until there is some foreign intervention.
Perhaps there was no more corrupt deal than that which compelled the flight of the president with the Christian general's bayonet literally producing him to Tientsin. The conspirators included Tiao Jui; Wu Yu Lin, present minister of communications; Pan Fu, late finance minister, and Wu Qing Lien, speaker of the house of representatives. The latter demanded that he be made premier and also that he be paid $2,000,000. Tiao Jui, having won Gen. Feng Yu Hsiang, was proceeding to auction off the fat offices when Gen. Wu Pei Fu compelled Tiao Kun to call a halt to the proceedings.

"COMBAT MEDAL MEN" OF GREAT WAR ORGANIZE

"Combat Medal Men" was the name chosen last night by Medal of Honor and D. S. C. soldiers, who formed a permanent organization at the Hotel La Salle. The group is nonpolitical and is intended to preserve the memories and associations of the great war. It is expected the organization will take a leading part in Memorial day parades and in the reception of distinguished visitors who took a leading part in the fighting overseas.
Officers elected were: Thomas A. Pope, president; Dr. Mark M. Duffy, Frank Koljane and H. H. Weimer, vice presidents; Michael J. Cullen, secretary; Sidney Holman, treasurer; R. W. Chase, John Francisco, Richard W. Steele, Charles E. Cole, John de Smidt, Frank R. Weiss, Edward J. Powers, A. J. Jones, John J. Keenan, members of the executive committee.

City Courts and Police May Get New Loop Home

Chicago's municipal courts, court clerks' offices, and police headquarters can be housed in the Andrews building at 163 West Washington street, for fifty-six years at a total cost of $700,000, members of the finance committee were told yesterday. As a result of a report by Ald. Guy Guernsey, the committee voted to inspect the building on Monday, indicating it would recommend purchase of the leasehold at the next council meeting.

Less Unemployment in May than for Twelve Months

There was less unemployment during May than at any time during the last twelve months, a survey issued by the United States department of labor indicated yesterday. In many of the larger industries the demand for common and skilled labor greatly exceeded the supply and the outlook for employment conditions is bright, the report showed.

CITY MUST PAY $12,000,000 ON NEW RIVER PLAZA

Work on the widening, double-decking and boulevarding of South Water street as projected by the Chicago plan commission may begin by Jan. 1, as the result of Judge Oscar M. Torrison's decision yesterday holding that the city must pay 35 per cent of the $22,000,000 total cost, declared John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements.

Although the decision fixes the city's share at approximately $7,700,000, Mr. Sloan pointed out that damages which must be paid to owners of abutting property will bring the taxpayers' eventual cost to nearly $12,000,000.

Less than $2,800,000 of the original

$2,800,000 bond issue voted for the improvement remains, Mr. Sloan said. This leaves the city short nearly $8,000,000 of the required amount. Two methods of raising the money were suggested. One is by a bond issue.

Delay by a Bond Issue

Although the city's legal bonding power is exhausted, Mr. Sloan pointed out that under the amortization scheme which retires $4,000,000 in bonds yearly, it would be possible to submit an $8,000,000 bond issue proposition two years hence. Completion of the program would be seriously delayed, however.

Mayor Dever, Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch and Mr. Sloan will confer on a second suggestion which entails abandoning the proposed Robey street widening and the use of $5,000,000 voted for it on the South Water street project. This would have to be sanctioned at a referendum which might be taken next November.

Holding of Torrison

In his decision, Judge Torrison held that the public benefit "in the relief of the traffic congestion, expeditious handling of traffic and transportation of goods from all parts of the city; the building up and beautifying of the city by this generally useful and improving improvement as part of the Chicago plan commission's comprehensive plan for a greater and more beautiful Chicago can not be measured in dollars and cents. Neither can the public benefits from a park be measured in dollars and cents. The statute says only that the proportion should be estimated."

Black Hand Murder Files Locate Missing Son—Dead

Fourteen years ago Giuseppe Ascitto left Italy to seek his fortune here. For a while letters and sometimes money reached his parents; then they stopped. Yesterday the Chicago police received a letter from Giuseppe's 80 year old father, asking that search be made for his son. Sergeant Riecio of the detective bureau looked through his files. He found a card. "Giuseppe Ascitto, murdered Oct. 15, 1915. Supposed black hand," it read.

Everything is K. O. in K-Y. Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra

"Saw Mill River Road" introduces a record you must have. It is graceful as a gavotte; it's a fox-trot, though, as you will discover in two steps. It is linked up with a blue-grass fox-trot with an old time tune in it. Paisley designs and colors. No. 19074 10-inch List Price 75c

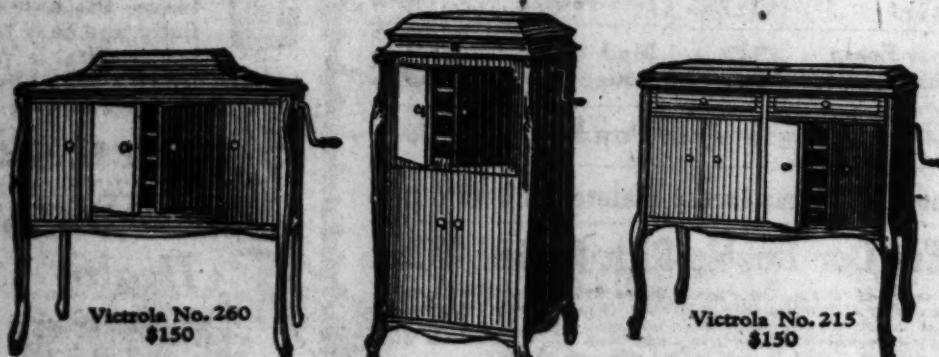

Wild-Flower Great White Way Orchestra
Dreamy Melody—Rocky Mountain Moon The Troubadours

"Wild-Flower" is something like an old-fashioned cocoanut dance with whistling effects; better add it to your list and keep up to date! "Dreamy Melody" is like its name—a slow, rhythmic, new waltz.

TO KNOW what is going on in the world all you need is this newspaper you read and The Literary Digest

WITH these two—this newspaper and The Digest—you know what has happened, and what was thought about it.

The Digest does not express its own opinion. If it did, it would be just one more opinion—not a whit better than the opinion of the able men who now edit the newspaper you are reading.

Instead, it offers something better than its own opinion or the individual opinion of any one editor, and that is a consensus of opinion—the substance of what all these able newspaper editors think—public opinion in the highest and best sense.

The Digest is the extension of the newspaper—its natural and logical sequent and supplement.

It is the editorial column of the world's press.

Its editorials are a collaboration by the ablest editors in the world.

Its news is the joint effort of the keenest reporters in the world. It is in a way the heart and soul of the world's newspapers.

It has no competitor and no imitator. It is absolutely unique.

And because 73% of its readers have been identified as executives holding positions of power, they influence buying in two capacities—as heads of businesses and heads of homes—and therefore they are multiple buying factors.*

*The facts on which this statement is based are in our book, "The Work They Do and Where They Live—Circulation Analysis of The Literary Digest." We shall be glad to send any advertiser a chart based on the information in this book, adapted specifically to his business. The Literary Digest, 354 Fourth Avenue, New York.

FUN from the PRESS

Every night ten million people sit and laugh and laugh as one joke after another runs across the screen in The Digest movie, "Fun from the Press." They are your jokes, not ours. ## BOLOS MASSACRE 2,000,000; STEAL VAST ASIA CROPS

BY JOHN STEELE

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

(Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, June 14.—(Tribune Radio.)—The British government has received from Seyid Mohammed Alim Khan, Emir of Bokhara, a request for protection and assistance against Russian soviet aggression which reveals for the first time a new migration of Huns. The emir spoke on behalf of not only his own country but all the semi-independent states of central Asia, including Turkistan, Khiva and many others lying between Russia on the north and the Afghan frontier and extending from the Caspian sea to the Chinese frontier. The population of these states are all Muslims and the countries produce a great deal of wheat. Their wealth attracted the bolsheviks. There has been a steady migration from Russia, first in the guise of military liberators to establish soviet republics and then as civilian colonists. The civilians have been seizing the crops and sending them to Russia, starving to death the people who survive battle and massacre.

2,000,000 Natives Killed.

It is estimated that more than 2,000,000 of the native population have been killed during the last three years, and more than that number of Russian colonists have taken their place.

According to the emir's appeal, the Russians used craft to gain a footing in the countries, first coming in as liberators and promising independence, and then sending troops to help establish governments. However, they encouraged the lowest elements to rise against the wealthier classes and rule-ers, but they did not, as in Russia, turn over the administration to them. All the posts were reserved for native Russians whose only interest was to denude the country of food for the benefit of the Red armies and communists in Russia.

Danger to Britain.

This situation is particularly important for Great Britain, as it is merely an intensive development of the earliest policy of controlling all the countries lying between Russia and India. The caravans worked by intriguing with the native rulers. The bolsheviks have a more effective plan, exterminating the natives and settling Russians in their place, so before many years a homogeneous Russian population will extend from the Arctic to the borders of India.

This is the danger which former Prime Minister Lloyd George referred to in debate in the house of commons in 1919. He feared a revival of the old Russian policy far more than he feared bolshevism.

WOMAN REALTOR, SWORN AT, CAUSES ARREST OF MAN

Failure to divide a $2,400 commission with a "lady realtor" caused an investigation of Samuel Klaggett, real estate dealer at 970 Stony Island avenue, and his arrest yesterday on orders of Inspector John W. Follmer of the state department of registration and education. He is charged with operating without a license.

Miss Ceryl A. Potts, a realtor at 10 North Clark street, says she turned over negotiations for the sale of a $100,000 property at 65th street and Blackstone avenue to Klaggett with the understanding he would share the commission with her.

Instead he swore at her over the phone when she asked for her share, she says.

STEEL FURNITURE MEN MEET.
Discussion of plans to improve trade conditions and to perfect the organization of the National Steel Furniture Association took place at the opening session of the association at the Congress hotel yesterday.

Missing Woman Is Found Making Trips on Boat

Mrs. Bertha Schroder, 57 years old, who disappeared from her home at 411 Noble street nearly a month ago, was found yesterday on the Goodrich steamer Missouri and taken to the Psychopathic hospital. She had drawn $2,250 from her bank and deposited it with the purser of the steamer, then had refused to leave the boat, completing four round trips between Chicago and Mackinaw. Steamer officials called the police when the boat docked.

Setliffe Takes Post as Deputy Collector

William Q. Setliffe was sworn yesterday as chief collector of internal revenue by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson in the office of Mrs. Mabel Reincke, collector of internal revenue. Major Setliffe has been adjutant of the Illinois department of the American Legion for four years. His home is in Bloomington.

GREEKS' THREAT TO MAKE PEACE ALARMS ALLIES

BY VINCENT SHEEHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune.]
LAUSANNE, June 14. — Greece's threat to make independent peace with Turkey and call an instant demobilization produced new and grave difficulties in the near east conference today. France, supported half heartedly by England and Italy, opposes the idea of any demobilization of Greek troops in western Thrace until the treaty is formally signed and sealed.

Greece replied to this opposition by producing a new and powerful combination—the Balkan states—with more than a hint of Turkish cooperation. Too great an insistence on the part of the allies might create an unheard of thing—an entente between Turkey, Greece, and the Balkans—according to Greek sources.

M. Venizelos early today wrote a formal note to Gen. Pella, Sir Horace Rumbold, and Sir Montague, demanding authority to demobilize the Greek army on the Maritsa river, pointing out that this force of 200,000 is a crushing burden on the impoverished country.

M. Venizelos conferred on this action with the British and Italian delegates.

When Hearts Command

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Carney and her daughter, Alice, spend an extravagant vacation on the Italian Riviera after a lifetime of frugal living. There they meet Dr. Philip Arden, the famous alienist, and he and Alice become engaged. Jean's husband, Hugo, who had been confined in a criminal insane asylum for the killing of his partner, is released and comes to join her. Not even Alice knows he is alive, and in order not to upset her John Ballis, Mrs. Carney had been legally married to Hector Gaunt in her youth; and Hugo had afterwards married her through chivalry to protect her and her unborn child. Hugo, on meeting her, reminds her she owes him $20,000. She agrees to pay him, but against his better judgment decides to marry Alice immediately. They are married at Genoa and go to Lucca on their honeymoon.

Then Gaunt's patient smile winks with self-reproach. It was enough for him just to be near her and help her to look after Hugo. The question of consigning the little man to a private asylum never was raised. He was trying enough, but he had his pitiful moments. Gradually, bit by bit, the memory of that place was growing dim. He scarcely ever referred to those long years at Broadmoor; nor did he clamor for a change to livelier surroundings or meditate wild financial enterprises. Of his own accord, he handed all his money over to Jean, and at least they were assured of a comfortable living. But one thing he often did mention, and that was the crime of which he had been convicted. As his childishness increased there accompanied it a determined desire to set himself right with the world.

Then Gaunt's patient smile winks with self-reproach. It was enough for him just to be near her and help her to look after Hugo. The question of consigning the little man to a private asylum never was raised. He was trying enough, but he had his pitiful moments. Gradually, bit by bit, the memory of that place was growing dim. He scarcely ever referred to those long years at Broadmoor; nor did he clamor for a change to livelier surroundings or meditate wild financial enterprises. Of his own accord, he handed all his money over to Jean, and at least they were assured of a comfortable living. But one thing he often did mention, and that was the crime of which he had been convicted. As his childishness increased there accompanied it a determined desire to set himself right with the world.

Hugo told it to me as man to man.

He began suddenly to assert his complete innocence of Tony Egan's murder. "I didn't kill him, but I know who did," he would say. Then he would add with a great air of mystery: "A man should always protect women. We are the stronger sex. Women should never suffer, no matter what they do." Jean always retreated when he got started on that subject. She fled in haste one day when they were having coffee in the fern garden after lunch, and Hugo had begun a detailed description of the scene which led to his partner's death. She went into the dim drawing room and, flinging herself on a couch, pressed her hot face against the cool linen cushions. How long was it to endure—this terrible life, with Hugo growing worse and worse every moment? The serene, friendly face of Mme. Douste looked down at her from the old portrait, with seeming compassion in the sweet gray eyes.

"If only I had told you!" Jean cried. "What would Mme. Douste have counseled? Certainly not marriage with Hugo, after what had happened. That had been the biggest piece of madness, and Jean herself had heard it. For a long time she lay staring at the portrait of her dead friend, until tears blurred her vision. Then the music of the harp on the door warned her that some one was entering the room. She started up apprehensively. No, thank heaven, it wasn't Hugo! Only Hector. "O, here you are," said Gaunt.

"Where's Hugo?" she asked. "Patrolling the walls of the citadel," he replied grimly. There was a strange, white look about his face.

"It can't be good for him in this heat," Jean said, wearily. "He'll get sunstroke."

"He'd have got it long ago, if he was going to," Gaunt replied. He settled down in a big chair near the couch, and passed a hand over his forehead with a tired gesture. "Jean—has it ever occurred to you that perhaps Hugo never did kill Egan?" he asked.

"X—no," she said, vaguely troubled. Why did Hector bring up that unpleasant subject? He knew she hated it.

"Did it ever occur to you that Egan might have been shot by his wife?" Again she said, "No." Then, "What put such an idea into your head?"

"Hugo. He told me the whole story, just now. If you had waited—"

"I couldn't bear it!" she exclaimed. "He's always hinting at mysteries. I suppose it's a part of his malady."

"I wonder!" said Gaunt. "It occurred in his office, if you remember—"

"I remember every ghastly detail," Jean said, hastily, hoping to head off the story which she did not wish to hear, but Gaunt paid no attention to her decisive interruption.

"Hugo told it to me as 'man to man,' although he said he would like you to know, too. He wants you to think well of him. If you remember, there was some question in the beginning as to whether or not Mrs. Egan was present at the time her husband was shot. The defense tried to prove that she had been present, and then Hugo deliberately let himself down by agreeing to the prosecution's assertion that she had left at least five or ten minutes before."

"O, yes—of course I remember," Jean said, resigning herself to the distressing reminiscence. "It was plain enough. Tony had embedded or misappropriated Hugo's little fortune. It was money they quarreled over, Hector."

"According to Hugo, the quarrel was between Tony and his wife. They had a child, and he had accused her of something rather monstrous. They had met in the office to discuss the matter of separation with Hugo, and suddenly Mrs. Egan pulled a revolver out of her muff and fired at her husband, as Hugo tells it. Then, he says, he couldn't bear the thought of her going to prison, and she agreed to his suggestion that they would say Egan had shot himself. But, of course, it was easily proved that he hadn't. Hugo says Mrs. Egan promised him that $20,000 if he would keep his mouth shut about her. It was the sum Tony had managed to get rid of for him. Hugo says it wasn't the promise of the money that made him agree, however; it was the thought of poor Mrs. Egan perhaps having to go to prison, or as he saw it then, being hanged. You know, Jean, that's much the sort of thing Hugo would do."

"I know it is. But do you believe—"

"I do," Gaunt said, firmly. "I've never ceased to wonder why she handed over that huge sum to him, and now I know. It was nothing more nor less than blackmail—but, of course, old Hugo is the last person to realize that. He calls it simply the price paid him for fifteen years in That Place, and cheap enough."

"Yes—it was cheap enough!" Jean exclaimed, huskily. "If the story is true. O, poor, poor Hugo!"

"I always said he wouldn't hurt a fly. I don't believe he's got it in him," "I wish I could think as you do," Jean said. "Lately I've been afraid of him, Hector."

"That's absurd."

"I know, but—"

The Aeolian harp jangled its warning and Hugo's inquisitive face peered in at them, followed cautiously by his body.

"Hello—what are you plotting?" he demanded.

"Nothing serious, old chap," Gaunt replied.

"Well, I've thought of something—of something wonderful. Couldn't we go on a picnic to Castel d'Appio?"

"Good heavens!" They exclaimed in one breath. Only Hugo could have thought of anything so mad to do in midsummer.

"Wait a minute. I know it's hot, but it would be nice and cool up there, and Jean could ride. I propose that we go after sundown and camp out all night, and get up for the sunrise. We could sleep all day—or you two can sleep while Tito and I keep guard—and come back after sunset tomorrow. Now what do you say to that? It would be a real adventure, with the ruins of a real castle. O, please let's go!"

Mr. Einstein's Film Appears Bit Baffling

Proves You Can't Believe Even What You See.

By Mae Tine.

Good Morning! Some big day yesterday! After reviewing Mr. Einstein's "Relativity" I went over to the Alcazar where they were demonstrating for enraptured beholders just how lumber is cut and how iron cables are made. Also a nice little cattle-thieving film entitled "With Naked Fists," which contains all the ingredients of a "western" including the beautiful lady with blonde curls, the stalwart suspect hero, the small stage child begging for mercy; horses, cows, cactus, villains, foot rails, lynching party, runaway, sheriff, whisky, sky, no water, happy ending.

At that if you like western pictures, it wasn't so bad. Certainly everybody worked hard. But the creme de la creme of the bill, however, was the wood and cable features. You are permitted to Sherlock on wood and cable from the time they are mere babes, growing in their native haunts, until they are the stalwart huskies that help you at a home or whatever you use cables for. What do you?

Especially, however, was I intrigued with "Relativity." I knew so much less where I came out than I did when I went in—which I may tell you in confidence, is saying something.

It seems that relativity means dependency on that when you think you see a straight line broken in the middle it isn't. Also is that circle? Ha, ha, it is not—it is a circle! And O, Babe Ruth, you thought you saw where that ball fell didn't you? You even could go and pick it up. Couldn't you? WELL—WHAT Mr. Einstein could tell you about that ball. Only, of course, you have to go into the stargazing space with him to get him right.

Standing on the earth you see a flag hoisted and it's upright. See two flags hoisted and they're BOTH upright. But get up into the stargazing space and you'd be surprised.

Also, look at the man in the boat. He seems to be going forward. Not to your life! He's heading it backward for all he's worth and, funny thing, he doesn't know it. Neither do you from your earthly niche. But in those stargazing spaces how the scenery changes.

O, Watson, the needle! O, nurse, the ice pack! O, Mr. Einstein, what MADE you! And the worst part of it is scientists say you're right. Therefore—
